

Advanced Exploration of Wetland Restoration

A 2-day Workshop on Restoration Design and Implementation

DATES: Friday, July 22 & Saturday, July 23

LOCATION: Stevens Point Area (Portage County)

INSTRUCTORS: Alice Thompson, Thompson & Associates Wetland Services and Jeff Nania, Wisconsin Waterfowl Association

Advanced Exploration of Wetland Restoration is a workshop designed to build on the content of Wisconsin Wetland Association's introductory restoration workshops and thus provide continuing restoration assistance. We invite all land owners, land managers, conservation professionals, and wetland enthusiasts who have completed one of our introductory workshops to join us for advanced exploration of restoration design and implementation issues. We selected a central location to allow reasonable travel time for participants coming from around WI.

We are developing the workshop agenda and content using results from a recent survey we sent to past introductory workshop attendees requesting information on their greatest needs for continued assistance. We'll begin on Friday afternoon with a classroom session and spend all day Saturday in the field. The classroom session will include a review and a problem solving session in which our instructors will consult with participants about questions from their own restoration projects; participants are encouraged to bring maps, photos and other information about their sites for this discussion. We will break into teams for Saturday's field component. With assistance from instructors, each team will complete a comprehensive site evaluation for a pre-restoration site and will share and discuss their evaluation with the class. We will end by visiting a similar wetland site that has already been restored and that demonstrates potential restoration outcomes.
